

Paul Coldwell

Small Journeys

Private View
Wednesday 20th April 2016

Exhibition Dates
21st April - 27th May 2016

This, the first exhibition by Paul Coldwell with Long & Ryle, presents a group of recent small sculptures and associated prints, which together explore ideas of journey, absence and loss. The sculptures are very much thinking models; propositions about how we might consider landscape, both from an interior perspective but also as seen from photographs and from above through the window of an aeroplane. The prints, developed on screen through the computer are reconstituted and resolved as physical prints, most recently as etchings, in order to reinstate their presence as objects in the world.

As an artist, Coldwell's practice includes prints, book works, sculptures and installations. He has exhibited widely, his work included in numerous public collections, including Tate, V&A, British Museum, the Arts Council of England and Musée d'art et d'histoire, Geneva. He was one of the invited artists to represent UK at the Ljubljana Print Biennial in 2005 & 1997, selected for numerous open print exhibitions including the International Print Triennial, Cracow, Northern Print Biennial, Split Print Biennial, Croatia and Statements, SNAP3, Rheine Germany.

His recent solo exhibitions include A Layered Practice Graphic Work 1993-2012, (a retrospective of his prints staged by the Universities of Kent and Greenwich), Re-Imagining Scott: Objects & Journeys at the Scott Polar Research Institute, Cambridge 2013 and Charms and other Anxious Objects at the Freud Museum, London 2014. In 2015 earlier this year, Material Things at the University of Bradford, focused on the relationship between his sculpture and prints.

Paul Coldwell is Professor of Fine Art at the University of the Arts London, based at Chelsea College of Art.
